The fort of Revelin is placed in the Old Town of Dubrovnik and is a unique place where the past and the present meet. The lower part of the fort was built in 1463, in the period of unmistakable Ottoman Empire threat. The fort protected both the eastern part of the City from mainland and the entrance to the City Harbour. Inside the fort there is a permanent collection of the Archaeological museum, as well as a virtual museum. In the evening hours the fort turns into the night life scene of the city of Dubrovnik. In addition to its impressive interior space that has the ability of separation, Revelin has a beautiful terrace with a spectacular view of Dubrovnik, where many events are held during the Dubrovnik Summer Festival and many other events.
